Course description	The course aims to provide the knowledge of the discipline of nonprofit entities (such as associations, foundations, committees, volunteer organizations, social advancement associations, social cooperatives, social enterprises...) and its complex variations, through an explanation of the evolution of each one of them, which comprises also its features and its main areas of activity.
Course goals and learning objectives (Knowledge and comprehension; ability to apply knowledge and comprehension)	The Enterprise models course aims to introduce the student to the system of rules that shapes the legal reality and regulates the functioning of entrepreneurial economic activity in a context that has been little studied in other courses, namely that of nonprofit organizations. Through the analysis of cases that have actually presented themselves to the attention of the courts, critical reasoning and the ability to solve problems thanks to the knowledge acquired will also be stimulated. Upon completion of the course, the student must have acquired a good level of mastery of the technical language of business law and the ability to easily recognize the institutes of which it is composed, applying the current legislation to the various problems that will actually be submitted to him. Requirement: knowledge and comprehension of business law. Knowledge of the peculiarities of business law, of the organization of the corporate entities and of the different forms of business, of commercial contracts and credit instruments. Goals: ability to understand the essential profiles of the operation of a NPO in its various aspects. Ability to analyze emerging issues in case law and provide convincing solutions.
Program	The course focuses on the legal discipline of nonprofit organizations, as articulated between Book I of the Civil Code and the now abundant special laws that flank it, creating a complex and still non-organic regulatory system. In particular, the program is divided into two main areas, the first concerns the Civil Code discipline of non-profit entities, while the second examines the innovations and criticalities that emerged following the implementation of the delegated law 106/2016 by the legislative decree 117/2017 (Third Sector Code) and of the legislative decree 112/2017 (social enterprise reform).
